Don Joy born in Illinois spending the majority of his youth on a small farm, surrounded by cornfields, in the northern part of the state. Traveling between Illinois and Missouri to his grandmothers in Springfield, Missouri. As a youngster, he would spin seventy-eight records on his grandmother's crank Victrola of the early country stars such as Hank Williams, Marty Robbins, Ray Price and Faron Young. He started singing around age ten and began emulating Elvis also an idol. As he grew older, he started singing in various honky tonks, clubs, and theaters, with a lifetime of music that has taken him to places like Las Vegas MGM for USA World Showcase, Ellis Island Casino, Marina Towers, Country Jubilee in Ohio, Ozark Hills, and other country venues. Don's latest CD titled, Wish You Were Back In My Arms, was cut at Sound Control Studios in Nashville and is a compilation of love songs and ballads of soft, traditional country. Don is currently working with Tate Music Group, still staying true to his country roots and maintaining a style of his own.
