It all started July 9th 1990, when this star was born. Tyrone, A.K.A Young Fame. Young Fame was born in Barstow, California but started his Career in the state of Maryland. However, the streets of Baltimore can be rough on teenage life because it is here in the streets of Baltimore that Young Fame lost his brother Tragic to gun violence. However, Fame was able to find himself in his music in order to help him cope with his brother's death. Fame has been influenced greatly by, Lupe Fiasco, Sean Kingston, Rick Ross, Riana, Razah, Chris Brown, Tu-pac, Biggie, DMC, etc. Fame says, "Their lyrical ability has influenced me greatly but most of all God has given me the courage to reach my goals, even though many say I wouldn't make it". Young Fame has performed at various shows across Maryland, and looks forward to performing with Major artists across the nation. Fame will combine Hip-Hop and Rap with his remarkable song writing skills into something totally refreshing for the fans.

Young Fame wants to make it clear that all his songs are written by him - Fame comes up with 100 percent of his lyrics. Young Fames status - " I write my own songs so if I can write a great track without /limited curse words then that's the style for me", Young Fame Continues, "As an artist, my goal is to make my messages' powerful throughout my music. I want everyone to feel my music and understand my background and standards in life, my albums will convey that message?"

The music is all about the authenticity of Young Fame. He is a talented individual and a dope producer who offers something different than other authors out there. A single hip hop artist; "I am a powerful lyrical artist and I'm ready to share it with the world?"
